

The Times Magazine - Britain's Top Doctors

Joint Editor of the British Journal of Ophthalmology, Professor Harminder Dua is featured in Britain's Top Doctors Directory issued in The Times Magazine on 13th November 2010.

Professor of Ophthalmology and Visual Sciences at the University of Nottingham, President of the European Association for Vision and Eye Research Foundation, Editor-in-Chief of the British Journal of Ophthalmology and consultant civilian adviser to the Royal Air Force. Known for research using stem cells to regrow the cornea and recently received funds from the Centre for Defence Medicine to develop research on techniques that can be used in war theatres. Recently elected as a chair of the Academia Ophthalmologica Internationalis, an academic body of 70 ophthalmic professors worldwide.

For more information about the British Journal of Ophthalmology, please visit bj.o.bmj.com

About Britain's Top Doctors

The recent Times Magazine Directory has created a list of around five doctors in each specialty such as Ophthalmology and Paediatrics.

The Times has formed a comprehensive list, aiming to cover the majority of specialties. A number of factors should be taken into account before specialists claim to be at the top of their game; diagnostic skills and clinical outcomes of course are very important, however, each patient judge their doctor's bedside manner based on their rapport building skills, such as empathy and dedication.