STALLARD OPERATING SPECTACLES

These Operating Spectacles, designed by Mr. H. B. Stallard, F.R.C.S., were the subject of an article by him in the British Journal of Ophthalmology, October, 1950. They present the following advantages :—

(1) When the extension carrying the lenses is swung upwards in front of the forehead, there is no obstruction below or to the sides of the operator's field of view. (2) The lenses, being placed well in front of the operator's nose and the plane of his mask, never become steamed over. (3) The spectacles are very light and comfortable, exerting the minimum of pressure on nose and ears. (4) They can be folded flat into a small space.

Tower Bridge

LONDON'S Tower Bridge is one of the best-known bridges in the world. Generations of small boys have waited patiently to see it open. Tower Bridge is not particularly old (it was opened in 1894) but it has a beauty all its own combined with the sturdy construction necessary for its hard dual task.

The Best of the New . . . . .

THIS beautifully designed folding frame may be obtained in two-tone material with silver adornments. The advantages of a folding frame are many and this Spiller version may be relied upon to incorporate with them real beauty of appearance and the sturdy construction that is necessary for long and hard wear.
